Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

Governor Lehman of New York, despite life long friendship with the President, and despite political considerations that would make silence better serve his personal interest, has written a letter to Senator Wagner of New York protesting against the President's court packing plan. He states in his letter: "Like many others, I have frequently felt keen disappointment that important legislative matters have been declared unconstitutional by a slim and unconvincing margin in the Supreme Court. And yet I believe that the orderly and deliberate processes of government should not be sacrificed merely to meet an immediate situation." It is refreshing to hear a man high in public life declare for his country as against selfish and party considerations.

The Possum Kingdom, a rest camp for tramps established by the WPA near Mineral Wells in Texas, has been abandoned. Highway wanderers who lately did a little hard work in keeping themselves and their clothes clean, and in cooking for for their own sustenance, are once more at liberty and at large. These knights of the highway, generally speaking, have no place of residence and therefore no vote. Of course they are the first to be returned to their former self-sustaining employment, of asking the charitable for a handout. This is a gain for the tax payers and a loss to the hoboes. Little by little sanity and expediency expels the Utopian dreams of Harry Hopkins and associated crackpots. By a process of infiltration common sense is slowly percolating into its former channels.

We have had no word recently from sturdy farmers and their families who were rapt away from Michigan and adjoining states to form a colony in a far Alaskan valley. The yaps of these mosquito pestered ingrates have died away in the long corridors of Time. We would be interested to learn how this noble experiment eventuates. We suspect the worst, for if any measure of success had attended the venture, Harry Hopkins would have proclaimed it from the Capitol dome at Washington.

"Funny how a feller loves his old home place," remarks the Old Timer, "that is it's funny when the matter is viewed generally. Looking at it from a selfish point of view, howsomever, it is not so funny either. This circus in town, the Russell Bros. outfit, has a publicity man named Antes. He's a friendly chap and asked the wife and me out to dinner. Now I have always wanted to know circus people when they were not walking a high wire, smacking each other with a bladder, inviting the lions to eat 'em, or jumping on and off a gallumphing hoss. So I accepts the invitation with alacrity and joy.

"But along comes the love of the old home place, and spoils the picture. It seems that when this circus was passing through Texas, the weather got hot, the cook got temperamental and meals got terrible, and the hearty eating circus people just naturally run him off the lot, so they picked a pinch hitter, out of the kitchen of one of the big hotels, and everything was fine. Food was good and tasty and this new cook staid and tended to his job and only got drunk on the long jumps. But as they got farther and farther away from Texas the chap, who was naturally jolly began to get melancholy, his paunch drooped and his cooking fell off, and when they got here to Nevada City the cook resigned, and how—. Mr. Antes was down town and he happened to notice the cook sitting on his paper suitcase out in front of the bus office. And Mr. Antes said: "Why, hello Mr. Crump, (that's the cooks name), what are you doing down here. Isn't it most lunch time?" and the cook, in his gentle, southern drawl, paying no attention to the lunch time query, says: "Oh, I like Dallas better'n any place I've been. I'm awaitin' for the bus back home." So Mr. Antes said he didn't know whether he would get any lunch or not and he dasn't have us out to diner. He didn't know what kind of a cook they'd have. So all because this cookie loved his old home town, I missed these circus people and lost a chance to sample their diet that gives them their intestinal fortitude and the all around ability to take it."

Changing the subject the Old Timer, noting the office dog, remarked: "That's a fine retriever you have there, whatever a retriever is. But I have a dog that is almost human. You have heard tell about people that go off to some retreat and reflect on their sinfulness and then meditate on post mortem probabilities. Well, our dog knows how to do it. My wife accidentally shut him up in the shed at the back of the lot. I missed him a heap and she was glad he was gone but did not for a minute suspect that she had accidently left him in jail. At least I don't think she suspected. This was four o'clock Saturday afternoon, and it was just a happanstance that she wanted to get something out of that shed at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, and when she opened the door out walked the dog. But such a different dog. All chastened and purified. Tell him to lie down and he drops with a sound like setting down a bag of bones. In fact I think every dog should go into retreat at least once a year. This hound of mine obeys now like a soldier. He's a bit thinner but not nearly so dainty in his feeding habits. He had time to think, to meditate and reflect, and it did him good."

ROTARY CLUB IS GUEST OF CAMP PIEDMONT GIRLS

The Piedmont Camp Fire Girls and their guardians were hostesses yesterday to the Rotary club at their beautiful camp on Lake Vera. The luncheon was served in the charming open air dining rectangle that looks out through the trees on pleasant woodland vistas.

Miss Rhea Rupert, guardian, whose untiring efforts have made Camp Piedmont what it is, and known throughout the United States as one of the finest in equipment, scenic beauty and management. In a short talk after luncheon Miss Rupert stated that Camp Fire held first place in her heart and generously offered her assistance to the Rotary club, in event the club would make an effort to organize more camp fire groups in Nevada City and Grass Valley.

The Rotarians pledged themselves to use their best efforts in getting the road between Nevada City and Lake Vera oiled next spring so that the many hundreds of girls, their parents, guardians, and the other hundreds of visitors need not "eat" such quantities of dust in that two miles.

Following the luncheon the Rotarians were taken on tour of the several buildings; the caretakers cottage, a charming four room dwelling sheathed with rounded siding; the log reception and amusement lodge, Wallace Alexander of Piedment financed the large, comfortable log reception and amusement lodge, the headquarters building, also of logs, and the great open air domitory where the Camp Fire Girls sleep, all spotlessly clean and in good order. These bore witness to the talent of the management in large scale house keeping.

There are 85 acres of beautiful woodland in the Piedmont camp and the woods have been kept free in the main from the underbrush that does so much to increase the fire hazard.

DOWNIEVILLE IMPROVES OLD SWIMMING HOLE

Downieville is engaged in safeguarding the old swimming hole. A pool in the North Fork of the Yuba river which flows through the town is to be equipped with two small change rooms ad a cable across the river with wire netting attached to keep the bathers from being swept down stream. A meeting was held at the St. Charles Hotel, under the chairmanship of Tony Lavezzola, recently at which further steps toward raising money and donations of materials for the project. This improvement should prove a stroke of good business as well as serving recreational needs. Hundreds of tourists are taking the Yuba Pass route east or west, and a good, safe swimming hole properly advertised will cause a good many to stop for a swim and for other refreshments here.

CANADIAN LEGION PICNIC

The Canadian Legion Post No. 83 of the twin cities has invited everyone to enjoy a picnic at Lake Olympia Sunday July 25. INJURED PILOT ABLE TO RETURN HOME

Ed Sandlin, licensed pilot and Lava Cap miner, who received a severe scalp wound and bruises Sunday when his plane crashed on the Nevada City airport, was removed to his home on Clay street Tuesday from the Nevada City Sanitarium. It may require skin grafting to heal the scalp wound.

C. L. Walker, investigator for department of commerce, interviewed Scandlin and took his statement in regard to the accident and also visited the airport for an inspection. The official stated the mishap was due to the motor stopping and was not the fault or carelessness of Sandlin, or the airport. All airplane accidents are examined by the department, especially licensed planes.

WORK TO START SOON ON DAMS

That the debris control dams project carried forward for years by Congressman Englebright in Washington and a small group of determined citizens on the hydraulic mining region of California centering here, has finally reached the stage of activity, was indicated yesterday when the dispatches told of the signing by President Roosevelt of the Rivers and Harbors appropriation bill which carried an allocation of $1,500,000 for beginning work on three of the proposed dam—the Upper Narrows in the Yuba river and the two American forks sites.

As interpreted by George W. Hallock, president of the California Hydraulic Mining Association such allocation assures the start of work in th very near future upon the dams. Ultimately $7,750,000 is to be expended.

JAMES TACKETT CHARGED WITH SHOOTING WOMAN

James Tackett, who claims he was mobbed by some of his tenants in his auto court in Hills Flat, and who during the melee shot Mrs. Don Bliss, was araigned yesterday afternoon by Police Judge Miles Coughlin, sitting for Judge Walter Mobley who is ill.

Tackett was charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, a felony. The complaint is signed by Don Bliss husband of the inpured woman. Mrs. Bliss is suffering from a bullet wound in her arm, which is reported to have shattered the bone. In the row, which began, according to Tackett, when a gay party in one of his cottages began throwing rocks at his WPA privy, Tackett was badly beaten and still bears the marks of the affray.

His preliminary hearing was set for Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

AMELIA EARHART

(In Memoriam)

Her eyes are closed—
The stars have borrowed stealthily, their lovely light
That God's blue night
And starry paths above may shine more clearly bright.

Her lips are mute—
Their gentle tones, familiar quiet and cool refrain.
Will sound again
In lilting silver rythm of spring's refreshing rain.

Her hands are still—
Their skilfull touch will come anew in perfumed breeze
From throbbing seas
And then, when autumn petals fall from flowering trees.

ENGLEBRIGHT SAYS CONGRESS ADJOURNS AUG. 1

Mrs. Harry L. Englebright of Nevada City has received a message from her husband, Congressman Englebright in Washington, D. C., stating it looks as if Congress would have all legislation out of the way in time for adjournment by August first when he will return to his home in this city.

Mrs. Englebright came west in time to see her son, Jackson Englebright, graduate from the Nevada City high school with his class. Jackson made the trip across the continent several weeks earlier to take final tests in the local high school in order to graduate with the class he entered the local high school with.

ENDS LIFE WITH DYNAMITE BLAST

Apparently mentally disordered Ray Cottrell, fifty year old, committed suicide early Wednesday morning, by blowing his head off with a dynamite blast. He and his family resided on the Red Dog road. The blast was so arranged as to set off a second explosion greater than the first. The tragedy occurred shortly after midnight and the deafening detonation rocked houses in the immediate neighborhood. He and his family has resided in Nevada City for three years.

Funeral services were conducted with only members of the family attending. Bereaved relatives are: his wife, Mrs. Eva Cottrell of Nevada City; his mother, Mrs. Rose Cottrell of Long Beach; two sons, Charles of Nevada City, Ralph of Ogden, Utah; two step daughters, Mrs. Thelma Bartlett of Nevada City and Mrs. Elbert Taylor of Vallejo and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Mason and Mrs. Thorn Mathis of Los Angeles.

HIT RUNNER BREAKS LEG OF PEDESTRIAN

John Fradelizio, of Nevada City, was struck by a hit and run driver, whom he claims he knows, at about one o'clock Wednesday morning as he crossed the Plaza. He managed to get up near the middle of Broad street and was assisted to Dr. W. W. Reed's office where first aid was rendered and he was taken to the county hospital. Dr. A. H. Tickell found he had suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and placed it in a cast.

SOFT BALL GAMES

The Tahoe-Ukiah highway soft ball team of Nevada City defeated the American Legion team by a score of 30 to 4 Wednesday evening on Memorial Park at Grass Valley. This game makes the highway team undefeated champions of the league.

Johnnie Gwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gwin of this city, had his tonsils removed at the Nevada City sanitarium Tuesday by Dr. B. W. Hummelt.

BONNIE BEE CLAIMS, NEXT ZEIBRIGHT, TESTED

H. D. Draper, local assayer, made an examination and took a few samples of ore on the 200 acre Bonnie Bee tract of ground near the Zeibright mine east of Nevada City. It is thought there is a continuation of the Zeibright dyke on the Bonnie Bee. Veins average five to six feet and there is a 12 foot vein near workings. One tunnel is in 700 feet and there is another one higher up on the montain. All indications so far seem to hold good promise The property is owned by the Bonnie Bee Quartz and Development company, G. A. Stuart of Auburn being secretary for the board of trustees.

SCOUTS HAVING BIG VACATION AT CAMP PAHATSI

Eighty-nine are enjoying the first week of Scout camp at Camp Pahatsi on Kilborn Lake near Soda Springs at the Donner Summit. Camp opened last Sunday afternoon at the conclusion of a week for Campfire Girls. About 400 visitors enjoyed the day at camp taking girls home and bringing boys to camp.

Swimming is being enjoyed to the fullest extent with the temperature of the water from 70 to 72 degrees. Classes have been organized for non-swimmers, beginners, and life savers for two periods each day. Boating still remains one of the attractive features of camp life. Babe Keeny is in charge of swimming and boating with Douglas Conway instructing the non-swimmers and Jeff Mooers instructing in life-saving.

Sunday night's Campfire featured as an opening ceremony the trip in boats from the dock to campfire point lighter by red flares. Monday night U. S. Forest Ranger Blanks from the Big Bend station visited camp and spoke to the scouts at the campfire about the organization of the Tahoe National Forest and the necessity for fire prevention. He closed by telling of his experiences in his worst forest fire. Tuesday night the campfire program was held in the scout lodge before a blazing fire in the great fireplace with the principal feature being a dramatization staged by the camp fire staff supplemented by the singing of Camp Pahatisi songs. The program took the form of a realistic radio broadcast program over camp station B. S. A. Douglas Coway is the charge of the campfire programs.

The five day hikers under the leadership of M. S. "Klondike Ike" Beecher left Monday for a trip starting at Alder Creek where they will earch the site of the Donner camp for souvenirs for the camp museum. They will then ascend the summit of the Sierras from the east searching out new lakes for fishing. The night before their return they will seek a high ridge from which they will signal camp by fire light.

Monday afternoon the scouts enjoyed a nature hunt put on for them by the nature department. Bird hikes have been held each morning and 14 to 16 different birds were observed during the hour trip each day. Bob Robinson is in charge of the department assisted by Bruce Kimsey.

The scouts are keeping the handicraft leaders busy asking instructions in leathercraft, braiding, pack-making, metal craft, and wood work. Instructors are Fred M. Stephen, Conway, Mrs. H. Ricksecker, and Mrs. M. S. Beecher.

Scoutcraft is being stressed each morning with instruction and test passing in advancement requirements and merit badges occupying an hour and a half each morning A large Court of Honor will be held Saturday evening at the color ceremony. Stephen is in charge of scoutcraft with each member of the staff instructing in his particular field.

The usual big meals are being "stowed away with gusto" in keen appreciation of Mrs. Alda Dalbey's cooking. Saturday the camp will enjoy a big turkey dinner.

During the short camp hike each patrol will solve the mysteries of beanhole beans by cooking them in a hole overnight.

The growing popularity of Camp Pahatsi is evidenced by the fact that five outside scouts have been interested in attending camp. In camp this week are two scouts from Alaska, one from Washington and two from Berkeley.

In addition to the above staff members Dr. L. W. Empey is camp doctor; Jim Chester, truck driver; Howard Clary, quartermaster; Bill Broocks and Jim Merfifield, mess officers; Jim Ricksecker, store keeper. Scout Executive Harris Ricksecker is camp director and district commissioner Jeff Mooers is assistant camp director and officer of the day.

HAVERSTOCK TO SEEK OFFICE OF SUPERVISOR

E. J. Haverstock will be a candidate for the office of supervisor to succeed E. B. Dudley, who a few days since resigned to accept the post of welfare officer of Nevada County. Haverstock, three years since was a candidate for the office but was defeated by Dudley by 32 votes. A great many people in his district are therefore interested in his candidacy. The appointment for the unexpired term will be made by Governor Marriam. Other candidates who seek Mergovernor's favor are J. C. Coughlan of North Columbia and Herbert W. Paine of Lake City.

CHANGE SURPLUS PROFITS TAX IS CHAMBER CRY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—In a broadside letter to its 7000 business members, today, the California State Chamber of Commerce declared the Federal surtax on undistributed profits unfair and a dangerous threat to the stability of business. The chamber urged all business men to write their congressmen immediately to show what the operation of the tax is doing to their financial structures.

The statement just published by the State Chamber analyzes the defects of the Act which, it says, many congressman are anxious to correct. Members of the chamber have advised that the surtax is a direct attack on far-seeing business operators and will tend to remove control of independent business from the hands of independent management.

The principal defects of the surtax according to the Chamber's statement are:

(1) Conflict between State and Federal laws.

(2) Unfair burdens placed upon corporations with outstanding debts.

(3) No allowance for current earnings used for business expansion.

(4) Establishment of the time of dividend payments at such date as to impose unreasonable or impossible conditions.

MINING PROPERTY AVAILABLE

John Ramm of near Camptonville was a Nevada City visitor today. He is interested in a large mining property in his district, part of an old estate for many years, that is now ready for sale. It is a four foot ledge that can be traced through it a mile, known as the Godfrey ledge lying in Oak Valley. There has been rich returns from placer mining in nearby gulches and the ledge formation gives promise of making it a paying property.

The Problem Labor Faces

Much anxiety is expressed among members of Congress and other thinking citizens over the situation in which Labor has placed itself before the public in a number of instances in recent months. Certain groups working under the banner of the C. I. O. appear to have made the Wagner measure an excuse for the use of violence in an attempt to achieve collective bargaining and other objectives.

It is claimed by some of those close to John L. Lewis that acts of violence, such as those instigated during the automobile strike last winter, the recent electric power tie-up in Michigan, the strikes in the independent steel company plants, and the overt action by officers and members of a local C. I. O. branch of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers against the Apex Hosiery Company of that city, were not authorized by him; that the violence connected with these strikes was due rather to irresponsible hot-heads in the organization.

Be that as it may. Labor, in the opinion of many, some of whomare within its own ranks, not only has made serious mistakes, but is in a position where it must soon decide whether it will take the road to the right or to the left.

The conservative adviser says to Labor that it is toward of whom are within its own ranks, not only has made serious achievement lies. It has rough spots, to be sure, for no road in life is smooth. But sane, moderate leadership, among which law and order and regard for the rights of others control, will conduct you safely over those spots. Each hazard you overcome will strengthen you for the next, making your journeying smoother, thus commanding the respect and approval of other groups in society, who, too, must pursue their paths in the social order.

Regarding the alternative choice. Labor hears this friendly warning:—To the left lies an uncleared road. It leads to violence and failure. It is a zig-zag path, full of gullies, swamps and quicksands, where many have gone down and none have long survived. None of the hazards are marked. Not only do you pursue this road at the risk of your own future and the welfare of your loved ones, but you vitally endanger the lives and welfare of others of your fellowmen, as well as the very liberties which make it possible for you to choose the road you are now about to take.

It is the opinion of many publictsts that we are perhaps too close to the present turmoil of labor and its reaction upon society to make any accurate appraisements. The laws of social causes and effects are manifesting themselves with such increasing intensity that not even the wisest can foretell the results. Not only are there serious issues between the ranks of labor as to jurisdiction—the followers of Lewis and the followers of Green—but within each rank there is bickering and misunderstanding.

Many keen observers of social forces hold that there must be a halt to the present labor disturbances.

The hope of every good citizen is that Labor will purge itself of its rash and violent elements, compose its differences, and in all its collective bargains keep its agreements.

If this cannot be done, anything may happen to Labor as an organization and to society. No thinking person is sure that a fascist dictatorship will not seize power in this land, even though the founding fathers provided constitutional government and parliamentary procedure as the means of determining all the issues of the Nation and the states. — From the Scottish Rite News Bureau.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN!

Browsing With The Bookworm

Harold Lamb has woven a brilliant mosiac, sparkling with color and romantic as a June night in his Omar Khayyam, A Life, published by Doubleday, Doran and Co. Inc., New York.

That there has been very little authentic information handed down through the ages regarding this famous poet and astronomer, is a regrettable fact, but Mr. Lamb has taken what crumbs there are and has developed an enticing presentation. His knowledge of the history and romance of the far east has definitely enhanced the book, and for sheer beauty the episodes that go to make the whole in this biography are hard to beat, moreover Mr. Lamb has treated Omar's sensitive genius with an equally sensitive touch.

Here we have vividly and poignantly placed before us the trials and triumphs of the poet of poets. Eight hundred after his death Omar still thrills the world with the phylosophy and sagaciousness of his Rubaiyat, and in Mr. Lamb's book is the perfect lighting on the perfect setting. One sees in Khorasan, where he dwelt in the House of the Stars the raison de'etres for the first stanza of the Rubaiyat:

Awake; for Morning in the Bowl of Night
Has flung the Stone that put the Stars to Flight
And Lo! the Hunter of the East has caught.
The Sultan's Turret in a Noose of Light.

The great Persian's first and undying love for the exotic Yasmi and her death from plague that left him stunned and with fire in his brain, is magnificently drawn. Omar's struggle with his calendar, the slow breaking of his spirit and his final search for solace in the juice of the grape, all this woven with exquisite delicacy and color into one unforgettable picture.

To truly understand the intenstiy and drama, the life-long agony of spirit and mind, the rare moments of ecstasy that gave birth to the Rubaiyat, one should read this life of Omar Khayyam by a man whose understanding of his subject verges on being uncanny.

For diversified reading run your eye through The Great American Parad ealso published by Doubleday, Doran and Co. Inc., New York.

Here is meat indeed, a veritable feast, with a menu to please the most ejicurean epicure. An all star collection of meritorious material by the headliners of current literature. The piece de ristance is Marc Connelly's Green Pastures in its entirety. There is a tid bit by Ogden Nash that is on the whole quite a morsel and Christopher Morley goes to town with his Swiss Family Manhattan, which same yarn gives you Mr. M. in his most whimsical mood. Booth Tarkington is here with Penrod's Day and Edna Ferber contributes a very forthright little piece in Courtroom, and one for which I applaud her vehemently. This is to name but a few of the delights of this 600 page volume. For really nourishing browsing have a crack at it. I promise the diet will be all that you can try over and over with never, never never even a suspicion of indigestion!

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Nevada City was honored today by the visit of Mrs. Margaret Poorman, an original 49'er. She crossed Hennes Pass, 90 years ago today.

Nevada county assessed valuations showed a heavy decrease.

An "Authorized Ballot" was printed in the Nugget. The question was asked: "What is your choice of location for Nevada City's ten thousand dollar municipal swimming pool?" and gave the following choices: The Young-Coughlan-Marsh site; the burned district site; the Red Men's park site; and the Bennets site.

The Nevada City high school students staged a benefit at the Nevada Theatre for the tennis courts.

Charles Sharp was elected foreman of the Nevada Hose Co. No. 1.

CHARLIE STONE, KNOWN NOW AS STONE CHARLIE

H. F. McLaughlin, in a specially built motor car, is making a novel display on Main street, opposite the Shell service station. The object on exhibit is the petrified body of a man. Moreover, this man was well known in the community in which his body was found, as Charlie Stone. He is now known as Stone Charlie. The body was discovered by Thomas Dunbar in the Missouri river sands in Montana. He was an early day settler and trapper and the pioneers of a hundred years ago in Montana.

One of the Wonders of the Scientific World!

This Exhibit is for the benefit of science and deep thinkers. Those who have been taught that flesh will not petrify, will find that this particular subject is an exception above all others, showing a transformation, nature's wonderful way of embalming, nature's masterpiece. Doctors are puzzled and scientists wonder. This is not a mummy, but a fossil form of a human body taken from the sands of the Missouri River in Montana, by Thomas Dunbar, a trapper. His hair, finger nails and teeth are perfect as your own. Also shows wound on head and hands strapped together across the breast, evidently having been tortured and murdered by Indians. Pronounced by competent physicians and the Butte Inter-Mountain as the Wonder of the Age; also by Drs. Sheeran and Vicars of Livingston, Montana, as the Marvel of the Century. A rare specimen. SILICOSIS RATE CUT 75 PERCENT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Special surcharges to cover dust disease hazards in mining and other industries have been reduced 75 per cent, according to T. J. Straub, San Francisco, chairman of the Compensation Insurance Committee of the California State Chamber of Commerce.

Straub stated that, in accordance with a ruling just made by Insurance Commissioner Samuel L. Carpenter, Jr., following extensive hearings and investigations in which the State Chamber's Compensation Insurance Committee took an active part, the so-called silicosis surcharges have been reduced downward 75 per cent making enormous savings to 60 mining and other industrial groups.

In addition to the reduction of surcharges, the rules and regulations will now require inspection of all plants regardless of size or payroll; whereas previously only those plants with payrolls of $10,000 or more were inspected.

This new regulation is expected to result in the more general practice of modern safety methods designed to eliminate dust hazards in industries which were the cause of the higher surcharges.

By complying with the inspector's regulations many plants may now be eliminated from the surcharge obligation where their practices eliminate the dust hazards to workmen.

CIRCUS DRAWS CROWD OF 4000

More than 4,000 people, conservatively estimated, filled the big tops of the Russel Brothers circus Wednesday evening, and the afternoon show drew nearly as many. This circus is one of the largest in the country and employs 500 people. The entire show is motorized. Among the featured acts which made a hit with the vast audience were:

Bob Fischer and his Five Fearless Flyers.

Buddy, the talking sea lion.

Miss Eerialetta, the lady gymnast.

The Rebras duo from France—Girl loops loop on bicycle.

The six Lelands, teeter board acrobats.

Frark Miller's dancing horses.

Irene Ledgett's performing elephants.

Reckless Violetta, slide suspended by teeth.

Great Albertine, backward footslide.

Veo Powers' military ponies.

Miss Tetu, top-ranking exponent of muscle grind.

Orton and Conners, troupes of wirewalkers.

Willis Sisters' educated canines.

Tony Leonard's contingent of clowns.

Among the future largest cities of the world, says Roger Babson, noted analyst, San Francisco, scene of a world's fair in 1939, will be among the first 13. All 13, he says will border on the Pacific.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder why James Henry said,
"Oh, bees are not so hot;"
If he had said, "they're not so cool,"
My answer would have been, "they're not."
I wonder why we often say
The things we do not mean,
And why we can't pronounce been, ben,
Instead of saying, "bean."

I wonder if the arbiters of correct speech are growing old and mellow, and if that is why rules are being made more elastic. At this time it is quite permissible to call been, ben, instead of bean—just optional, we are told; then too, shall and will have been liberalized and may be used interchangeably—of course they always have been used —"interchangeably," but that is neither here nor there. The college professor who inadvertently sings out, "it's me," no longer rates a case of mistaken identity, and the prim little spinster who was denied admission because the good saint detested formal speech, may conscientiously twitter, "it's me, Peter," and find the pearly gates flung wide. This is all ever so comforting; many of us feel more at ease already; but what will the purists and hyper-critical do now, poor things?

I wonder if rewriting familiar rhymes in conformity with the spirit of '37 could be turned into a lucrative occupation. I'll find out by submitting this one to The Pathfinder, Washington, D. C.

By by baby bunting, Franklin's gone a hunting—
Gone to find a modern skin to wrap those ancient jurists in.

I wonder at the amazing contrasts evolved by our modern manner of living and thinking. A noted aviatrix and her companion, while attempting to circle the globe in an aerial palace, drop from sight somewhere in the south seas, whereupon newspapers in every quarter of the civilized world feature the story in detail as long weary days of uncertainty pass by.

A short while back an unheralded hero gave his life to save little children from the fury of a mad dog. Perhaps you read the story; it was two or three paragraphs in length, appeared upon inner pages of our dailies for a day only and was then seemingly forgotten.

I wonder if some individual, group of individuals perhaps the great American government itself, will memoralize this act of supreme devotion in a manner befitting its greatness.

Surely wealth, power and distinction, greatly as we admire them, do not determine the value of a human life or the worth of an exalted deed of heroism in democratic America —or do they? —A. MERRIAM CONNER.

ART EXHIBITION IN GRASS VALLEY

An exhibition of water colors and drawings by seventeen California and Nevada artists of the WPA Federal Art Project is being shown in the Bret Harte Inn at Grass Valley from July 19 to August 19, according to Mrs. Beatrice Judd Ryan, State Supervisor of Exhibitions for the Project.

Outstanding among the drawings to be exhibited are the chalk drawings by Robert Cole Caples of Nevada. The five drawings included in this exhibition show Mr. Caples' individual approach to art. This artist very much interested in biblical subject matter, and has just executed a large decoration in pastel for the University of Nevada—"Last Supper". The Madonna in this exhibit illustrates his handling of this type of material. Quite opposite in feelings are his four other drawings which show the rugged quality of western life in Nevada where Mr. Caples lives.

Of special interest at this time are the two scenes of the bay bridge by Otis Oldfield. Mr. Oldfield has also made a series of the bridge in lithography.

Marian Simpson, who has just completed a decoration in inlaid marble for the new Alameda county court house in Oakland, in a medium called "Opus Sectile," is exhibiting one interesting drawing of "Seal Rocks." The collection of water colors are by artists from Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Francisco and the bay area.

Those by George Post, "Old Ranch at Lake Topaz," and "Ranch San Geronimo, California," illustrate this artist's work which has a flowing fascile quality. In contrast to these are being shown abstractions by Ben Berlin of Los Angeles and Andre Rexroth of San Francisco. The work of Tyrus Wong and Yoshido Sekido are expressions of the oriental view point and are contrasted by the water color "Landscape 20" by Dong Kingman, a young Chinese artist developed on the project, who works in the occidental style. Again we find an oriental influence in "Hot Day" by Nicholas Bigante and "Composition" by John Gerrity.

Among the strongest water colors of the exhibition which are in color and design, are the "Portsmouth Square" and "Street Scne" by Herman Volz.

DANGEROUS AGE, HIGH SCHOOL AGE

LOS ANGELES, July 22. — The "dangerous age" today is the high school age, according to Dr. Herbert J. Stack, eduational director of the National Casualty and Safety Underyriters of New York City, who recently addressed a Street and Highway Safety conference at the University of California here.

"Statistically, the peak of auto accidents occurs in the high school period. The same is true with regard to other accidents such as firearms, recreational and drowning. This is undoubtedly because it is during this period that so many are learning to drive, to shoot, to play difficult games, to swim. Because this is true it is actually necessary that schools attempt to do all they can to prevent accidents of all kinds. Because traffic accidents are on a dangerous increase it is doubly imperative that some program of traffic education be adopted by schools. There is no use educating youngsters in the three 'R's' and then sending them out to die in traffic," said Dr. Stack.

Attended by U. C. L. A. summer session students, city and state traffic officers and educators, the U. C. L. A. conference included a general session, round table discussions, a symposium and a dinner gathering at which Vierling Kersey, superintendent of Los Angeles City schools and Arthur Erb, of the Beverly Hills traffic commission, were speakers.

ARRESTED FOR FISH BLASTING

John Wrest, who conducts a second hand mining machinery sales lot on the highway between Nevada City and Grass Valley below Town Talk service station, was arrested Tuesday by Game Warden Earl Hiscox on a charge of blasting fish in the Middle Yuba river near the Plumbago mine at Alleghany. He was taken before Judge W. L. Mobley for arraignment and released on $500 cash bond when he pleaded not guilty. Trial date will be set later. It is claimed Wrest blasted eight big holes in the river and Game Warden Hiscox found more than 600 large and small dead fish in the river. It is claimed there are eye witnesses to the offense.

NEW MILL FOR THE DAISY BLUE MINE

The Daisy Blue Mining company has several men at work clearing and preparing foundations for the new 20 stamp mill which is to be put up on the property northwest of Nevada City at once. It is to be the latest in construction and will be a ball mill with flotation cells, classifier, concentration tables. Ore is piling up rapidly for the mill and the company is prepaing to get the mill in as fast as possible.

J. P. Muscardini, who is interested in the property, is superintendent and sinking a 225 ft. shaft is progressing rapidly. Seven men are employed. Officers in the company are W. R. Channon, president and H. Rutherford, secretary and treasurer, both of Live Oak; John Marks, vice president, and John Muscardini, superintendent.

PANHANDLERS DE LUXE

Judging from the expression on the face of Zoe Dell Lantis, pretty pirate girl of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, and Sam Johnston, president of the Angels Camp Calif., Boosters' Club, who is seen here as a miner, there's plenty of pay dirt in the pan. Miss Lantis uncorks the smile while Jonhston reveals plans for a "Forty-niner Mining Camp at the Exposition.

NO MORE BAND CONCERTS

Due to conflicting events and inconvenience on the part of those who are leaving for vacations, the Nevada City band was discontinued Tuesday night and there will be no more concerts. The band has been very punctual and entertaining in all of its concerts and the people of the city will miss the usual Wednesday night concert.

The band played in the Fourth of July parade in Grass Valley and every Wednesday night from the National Hotel balcony since school was out.

A great need today—If there is one commodity in which the world is short today, it is enlightened leadership. The need is written in every new day's headlines. As men and citizens, we should be looking ahead to preparing enlightened leadership for tomorrow. And from whence will it come of not from the ranks of healthy, normal boys, the sons of good parents, the products of the hard-won advantages of our civilization?—Winthrop R. Howard, New York businessmen, in the Rotarian Magazine.

Battleships from the nations of the world will anchor off Treasure Island, site of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, during the World's Fair of the West.

The English taste for port wine was first acquired by English soldiers fighting Napoleon's army in Portugal under the Duke of Wellington, according to Major O. J. Keatinge, head of the foreign relations division of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Many Normal Boys Need Help—Poverty is dramatic in its appeal to the humanitarian-minded man. But "underprivilige" is not a matter of bread and butter and bath tubs alone. So-called "normal" boys, too, often need adult aid—counsel, direction, friendship.—From an editorial in the Rotarian Magazine.

Thru the Knot Hole

A Glimpse of Building Activity

Vol. 1. JULY 22, 1937. No. 48.

Almost too hot to write an ad, but our office is somewhat more comfortable than the ordinary kitchen. We have Palco redwood bark over our ceilings and the housewife in most of our kitchens has not the advantage of any insulation. Better have us tell you how little the cost would be for an insulation job.

Contractor Bill Forkner is pushing the job on Mrs. Sheldon's new home along rapidly. This new modern home at the crest of the Nevada street hill commands a fine view of the surrounding hills. It will be modern in every way.

Shingle time is about here again. Contactor Bob Steger is making alterations which include a new shingle roof to the Alfred Hitchins property on Sacramento St., across from the high school.

Wood shingles continue to be the most popular material for roofs in this community. They have shown their sterling value and long life over a number of years; are easily repaired in case of necessity, and give the utmost value for the money spent. Fine shingle stains are available which will give the home owner almost any color desired for a finish.

Smith: "I wear the trousers in my home."

Friend: "Yeah, but right after supper I notice you wear an apron over them."
